

BIO: Chris Bennett, CPP

I have been working in payroll for almost ten years. I earned my FPC certification in the Fall of 2004, and earned my CPP certification in the Fall of 2006. I am a senior payroll specialist at Ingram Book Company and began working there in May 2004 and I really enjoy working there.

I enjoy working in Payroll because I have always been sort of a “numbers” guy. I like the challenges of the detailed reporting and enjoy the day to day communication with our associates. That being said, I also love working with people and providing them with the service that we have all come to expect from our payroll departments.

I was born and have always lived in Nashville and I am married. I have been married to my wife Sandy for twenty eight years and she is a teacher and has been doing that for over twenty five years. We have a wide variety of pets including a dog, bird, and several fish. We both love animals and over the years have had several including dogs, birds, fish, rabbits, guinea pigs, and hamsters. We are both love football and are huge Titan fans and are starting to enjoy hockey as well. In our spare time we do a lot of work with our church and both enjoy reading.
